Biography

Dr. Arianna Elmquist is a board-certified oral and maxillofacial surgeon with fellowship training in head and neck oncology and microvascular reconstruction from the University of Alabama at Birmingham. Her clinical interests include oral cancer, facial reconstruction, microvascular free-flap surgery, regenerative medicine, and orthognathic surgery. She is passionate about advancing multidisciplinary collaboration and expanding access to specialized surgical services. Outside of work, Dr. Elmquist enjoys traveling with her husband, hiking, white-water rafting, paragliding, and attending live music events.

Course Description

This presentation will provide an overview of the multidisciplinary management of patients with head and neck cancer, emphasizing the essential role dental professionals play in early diagnosis, timely referral, dental rehabilitation, and long-term patient care. Topics will include oncologic surgery, surgical and dental reconstruction, strategies to mitigate radiation-related damage, and the functional challenges patients may experience following cancer treatment.

Learning Objectives:

At the end of the course, participants should be able to:

- Recognize and differentiate high-risk oral lesions.
- Identify common pitfalls that may contribute to delays in diagnosis.
- Describe common surgical approaches and recognize typical postoperative appearances.
- Anticipate functional and dental complications associated with cancer treatment.
- Develop effective referral and communication strategies to support coordinated, multidisciplinary patient care.
